JOB DESCRIPTION

UD is currently seeking an Assistant Athletic Trainer by providing comprehensive fitness, nutrition, and conditioning programs for student-athletes. In addition, this position will instruct students on best practices regarding overall health and well-being, and treat chronic minor injuries and related disabilities.

PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Work with the Head Athletic Trainer to provide CPR, AED and First Aid training and certification to coaching staff and, when appropriate, other members of the UD community.
- Provide a comprehensive sports medicine health care service for student athletes in the areas of preventative medicine, injury assessment, treatment of injuries and post rehabilitation.
- Assist Head Athletic Trainer with the management of facility inventory and supplies.
- Assist Head Athletic Trainer with Emergency Action Plan.
- Provide coverage of practices and athletic competition for UD sports teams.
- Administer first aid to athletes; apply protective or injury-preventive devices such as strapping, bandaging, or braces.
- Provide first aid and emergency care for athletic-related injuries and determine appropriate medical referral as warranted.
- Coordinate with the University physician and arrange appointments with specialists, as necessary.
- Maintain accurate records of all injuries and treatments.
- Provide athletic training services at varsity home events for both teams and at home practice sessions.
- Communicate well with Athletic Director, Coaches, Head Athletic Trainer and Physicians.

UNIVERSITY OF DALLAS

- Ensure compliance with NCAA Sports Medicine Handbook.
- Be present at home contests and practices when assigned; at least 90 minutes prior to scheduled start.
- Assist in the administration of university insurance program for athletics.
- Travel with teams when necessary.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS

- Bachelor's degree.
- Five years of experience directly related to the duties and responsibilities of the position.
- Knowledge of a wide range of CPR and first-aid techniques.
- Knowledge of physical therapy theory and practice.
- Ability to design and implement effective fitness, nutrition and conditioning programs for college-level athletes.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

- Must maintain current CPR certification, AED, and First Aid certification.
- Must maintain NATA membership/certification in good standing.
- Must be certified by the National Athletic Trainers' Association Board of Certification (NATABOC).
- Must be eligible for Texas State Licensure.

BENEFITS

UD provides competitive pay and benefits, including eligibility to participate in medical, dental, life and disability insurance; employee events; a health and wellness program; a free fitness center; competitive leave programs; tuition benefits for employees and their families; and matching retirement plan contributions.
